that has made it absolutely necessary for her to maintain the greatest navy in the world. The statesmen of Great Britain well know that to close the sea doors to their country would mean swift and sure starvation to the people of the United Kingdom. This nation is the chief source of British food supply. To cut that off would cripple the allies more than a ban on war munitions.

DEATH OF EMPEROR

peror bore each blow and in later years withstood the inroads of ill health himself was the wonder of his people. Fears that the shock of the assassination of his heir, the Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his consort while on a state visit to Bosnia on June 28th last, would kill the emperor were answered in characteristic manner.

Francis Joseph, then nearing his 84th birthday, recuperating at Ischl from a catarrhal affliction which each spring had worn heavily upon him, mustered strength and returned to Vienna immediately, and took a firm grip on the confused state of affairs.

With the royal rites observed, and the new heir, the young Archduke Carl Francis Joseph recognized, the venerable emperor and his advisers turned to Serbia with demands which startled all Europe. From the ultimatum of July 23, denouncing the anti-Austrian propaganda and demanding prompt punishment of the assassins of Archduke Ferdinand, according to items supposedly dictated by Francis Joseph himself, practically dates the war now ravaging Europe.

PARIS, Nov. 23.—The newspapers here today are merciless in their comment on Francis Joseph. The Matin said: "If he had disappeared from the scene three years sooner the world would have forgotten his calculating cowardice and ferocious egotism, and his hypocrisy would alone have been remembered. The private and public misfortunes which marked almost all the years of his reign without reflecting these misfortunes, were all deserved." It is not believed that his death will effect the war. The general impression is that he has long been a figurehead, and signing without reading, the documents to which his signature was necessary, and taking no part in the affairs of state.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The German embassy is certain that the death of Francis Joseph and the ascension of Carl Francis Joseph will result in renewed military activity by the Germans.

PROHIBITIONIST FOR GOVERNOR?

In the completeness of its prohibition legislation, Arizona has taken the lead of the states of the union. It is about to take a step further and elect in 1918 a prohibitionist governor? To be sure, it is rather early to consider the 1918 campaign, before the official decision is given in the 1916 campaign, but it is not too early for certain "forward-looking forces." At the meeting Tuesday night at Phoenix of the Arizona Temperance Federation, Rev. Henry Van Valkenburgh of this city, was nominated by T. K. Marshall, president of the federation, for governor in 1918. The suggestion is said to have been enthusiastically received.

This suggestion came at the conclusion of an address by President Marshall, in which he predicted national prohibition in eight years, and urged that only men favoring prohibition be put into office. Those who feel inclined to laugh at this suggestion are reminded of the election two years ago. It is never wise to assume that other people are not serious and in earnest—it is a sort of self-flattering over-confidence.

Should there be a general laxity in the enforcement of the prohibition amendment, it would perhaps be a logical development that instead of entrusting the enforcement of the law to officials of either the Republican or Democratic faith, the prohibitionists or temperance federationists should commission one of their own members to enforce the law, but unless such a condition should prevail we doubt much the disdow of the proposal. However, we are far from ridiculing it.—Tucson Star.

CAMPBELL LEADS IN PIMA BY 328—PROHIBITION BY 68

(Special to Yuma Daily Examiner.)

TUCSON, Nov. 22.—Tom Campbell's lead over Governor Hunt was cut down seven votes when the board of supervisors of Pima county made the official count today. Campbell's lead is 328. It was reported as 335 on the unofficial count.

The count was completed about 2 p. m. O. J. Baughn has a lead of 499 over H. D. Ross in this county. Wilson carried the county with a majority of 537. Ashurst carried Pima county with 69 majority. Carl Hayden's lead here is 773 votes. Sidney P. Osborn, for secretary of state, received a majority of 774, leading the state ticket in this county.

Doane Merrill, Republican for state auditor, carried the county by a majority of 30.

The prohibition amendment carried by 68 majority.

NO BOXING TONIGHT.

The boxing exhibition scheduled for tonight has been postponed and it is probable that it will take place about Christmas time, when the Yuma public is promised a series of good, clean sporting events.

LAWS ARE VAGUE

That Governor Hunt cannot hope to upset the returns is certain from the fact that if recounts are secured in every county of the state, Tom Campbell is sure to gain from 500 to 1000 votes and perhaps more for the reason that in nearly every county many ballots were thrown out because the elector had voted the straight Democratic ticket and placed a vote opposite the name of Tom Campbell. Many states provide a law that such a vote shall be counted. The Arizona statute silent on the subject, but Arizona courts have held that such a vote, showing as it does the plain intention of the voter, should be counted.

That the Republican state central committee does not intend to let the victory slip from their grasp is evidenced by the fact that they have employed some of the best attorneys in the state to conduct the fight to seat Campbell if Hunt files a contest, and by the fact that both before and after election they had Thiel detectives in many precincts of the state, investigating illegal registration, illegal voting and illegal counting of returns. The reports of these detectives in the hands of Chairman Maddock of the state central committee, are said to show many gross irregularities.

SNAKES.

The writer took his annual vacation last month, spending the day near old Camp McDowell, forty miles up the Verde river from Phoenix. Walking across the desert toward the swimming hole a member of our party discerned a large rattlesnake traveling leisurely down a small ravine toward a large hole in the ground. A hurried call brought toward the Remington automobile a load of quail shot rattling toward the menacing head of the reptile before it reached shelter. A young man from the "east" waived the "hide should go with the tail" rattles and a button," and decided that the hide should go with the tail. We proceeded to remove the covering. Our surgery being a little crude, we accidentally made a discovery, viz. that we had killed a "female of the species" on her way to a maternal hospital and but for our violent intervention there would soon have been seven rattlers where but one had rattled before.

We know more about snakes as a result of this accident than from all our previous reading or other forms of instruction. The six little ones were all complete, coiled, colored and ready for business, about 10 to 12 inches long, encased in a soft egg-like membrane which contained rattles. Differing from many other reptiles, rattlesnakes are born alive, "viviparous" the zoologist calls them, and they do say seriously that while still small they on occasions of danger run down their mother's mouth for protection. Running into a rattlesnake's mouth for safety suggests that all depends on who we are and the relations which we have previously established. Our point is that we once thought we knew things but now find out that we knew them temporarily and academically and hence most imperfectly.

We have lived in rattlesnake territory all our lives, have had them thrown up to us on a load of hay and have similarly tossed them up to the other fellow just for fun. We have in younger, more venturesome days, caught snakes by the tail and jerked their heads off. We have been entertained by the antics of Dobbin hitched to the hay rake when a rattler in the bundle of revolving hay behind him and under the driver expressed his disapproval of the whole hay-making proceeding. Our first collection of rattlesnakes was when as a very small boy we slept with one in a clothes basket of shavings. The snake woke first and was leaving with considerable quietude when seen going over the edge of the basket.

We had read and forgotten how rattlesnake came into the world but will not forget it again nor will any member of the party present at this recent revelation of the miracle.—Native American.

Bronchitis.

When a severe cold settles on the lungs it is called bronchitis. There is danger of its leading to broncho pneumonia, and for this reason it is always best to go to bed and take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as directed until well along towards recovery. Mrs. Charles E. Woodward, Sandy Creek, N. Y., writes: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cured me of bronchitis last fall. When I began using it I was so hoarse at times that it was difficult for me to speak above a whisper. I resorted to the use of this valuable medicine and found it very soothing and healing. In a week's time I was well." Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.
